facilities services

formula is a new-breed facilities services provider delivering world class cleaning and bundled service solutions across the UK.

Having sourced and retained key people from key sectors within the industry, we have been successful in constructing a senior management team possessing a technical understanding, depth of knowledge and diversity of experience that is only rivalled by our institutional passion for quality.

Of course, like any business, we exist to deliver profits but, unlike many other businesses, our confidence in our product is such that we expect to enjoy business relationships lasting many years.

To this end, we pare down our margins, approach every business relationship as a genuine partnership and - by promising much and delivering still more - underline our reputation for honesty, integrity, contract compliance and value for money.

Ask our clients, and they'll tell you that rewarded trust, genuine peace of mind and a best value service are feature benefits of a partnership with Formula.

At Formula, quality isn't just about writing policies, filling forms and ticking boxes. It's an institutional passion.

Of course we have policies, fill forms and tick boxes - and close, self-critical, quality management is a feature of every solution and procedure.

But, by comprehensively training our cleaning staff to begin with and, thereafter, fostering an atmosphere of involvement, ownership, and responsibility, we build in the capacity for our talented managers to drive quality and standards of service to another level.

Formula Facilities Services has enviable experience in this field, and we are accustomed to redefining cleanliness expectations while often realising worthwhile savings for our Clients through the application of a little listening; thought; intelligence and innovation.

No other company, that we know of can boast a management team that is more experientially and intellectually capable; culturally encouraged to think outside of the square; and driven to focus upon a Client's needs.

But, ultimately, it is our adherence to our core business principals, our institutional passion for quality and our commitment to the training, empowerment and welfare of our cleaning and supervisory staff, that drives our success and ensures that you will receive a one-stop, world class office cleaning and soft services experience that will re-benchmark your expectations.

Formula Facilities Services specialises in the provision of technical cleaning services enjoying unrivalled expertise in this field and a rapidly growing portfolio of telcos and blue-chip companies who all, sensibly, count data as their most valuable commodity and recognise how the cleanliness standards that we provide are critical to their achieving their up-time goals.

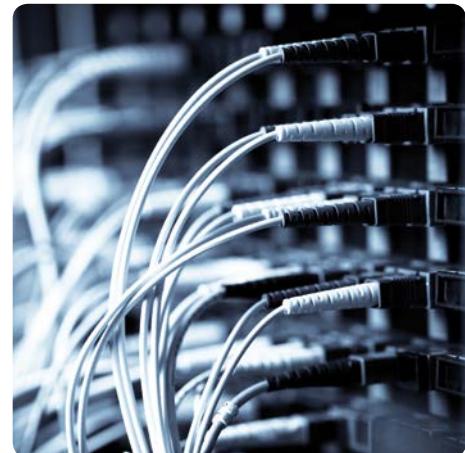

Employing carefully selected materials, equipment and processes, our methodologies don't just produce superb visual results, but also maintain the technical properties of static dissipative floor surfaces;

reduce ambient particulate levels; anti-statically treat equipment; help to optimise environment and equipment performance; and – if you're in the business of selling or leasing data centre space – add a powerful sales tool to your armoury.

But beyond this, we innately understand the need to closely control, monitor, and carefully measure the quality of any technical cleaning activities and it is this special insight that has helped us to design reporting and management systems which – along with our matchless standards of cleanliness – have helped to achieve Europe's first Uptime

Institute Tier III Gold Award for operational sustainability and means that we can, for every reason, claim to be the UK's leading technical cleaning provider.

Many of our larger competitors boast of their own – in house – window cleaning divisions which, in our experience, tend to provide a poor quality, unreliable service with relative impunity.

It is also noticeable that the ‘group’s’ systems and procedures tend to be modified to encompass window cleaning rather than specifically designed to manage this, sometimes, challenging and hazardous activity.

At Formula, we carefully source the best specialists for the application; ensure that they supply their services to the highest standards (when they say they will); comprehensively document their activities; and closely manage them in a manner that is only possible via a true supplier/client relationship.

A growing awareness of man's impact upon the environment combined with the realisation that natural resources are finite, has driven World, EU and UK legislation such that companies now have definite duties and responsibilities in respect of waste management and recycling.

Happily for the environment, through the employment of an integrated waste management solution, many companies can actually recycle and dispose of waste responsibly, while also realising cost savings.

Whatever your sector, Formula Facilities Services can design and implement a comprehensive, cost effective, integrated waste management.
